

Stall Talk

January 2006

lib.virginia.edu/press/stalltalk

The New VIRGO: What will you find?

In light of the recent renovations around here, we thought it might be nice to give VIRGO, our faithful online catalog, a makeover as well. It would be something subtle, something tasteful, something streamlined and easy to use. But first, we need your input. To take a look at our ideas for the improved VIRGO, visit the Library Lab at <http://lab.lib.virginia.edu>. Run a few searches, see what you can find, and let us know.

WELCOME BACK!

New Year, New Art

This semester, the Brown Science and Engineering Library will host its latest exhibit, The Land of Wandering. The exhibit has been two years in the making, and each piece is the result of a collaborative effort by UVA faculty, alumni, and other artists. The theme of the exhibit is new as well, this time focusing on various interpretations of the creation and fall as told in different religious texts.

Read all about it

The Chronicle for Higher Education is now available online. To visit it while on Grounds, go to <http://chronicle.com>. Read up on current topics or visit issues from 1995 to the present. In addition, you can search for articles from as far back as 1989.

Computer clinics

ITC consultants will be available to answer your computer questions in Alderman, Brown and Clemons this semester. Learn how to set up your laptop, resolve software issues, or access a printer. Hours are Sunday through Thursday from 10 am until midnight (10 pm in Alderman) and Friday from 10 am to 4 pm.

* Federico Fellini, born January 20, 1920